GOV. BECKHAM.

Suddenly, after seven years in the executive office, he becomes a temperance man. Who would have suspected it? In all these years he has allowed Sunday saloons, as well as pool-selling and other forms of gambling, to flourish unmolested. One of his first acts was to prohibit the sale of liquor at the penitentiary, a convicted pool-keeper of Louisville, and the closest political ally, until now, have been the heavy and

THE CHRONIC BORROWER.

Everybody knows from experience that this chronic borrower is always with us, but it remained for a Winchester lady to get rid of one of this undesirable class. This particular lady and her family are lovers of a fine cup of coffee and always buy the best to be had. This lady was afflicted with a neighbor who is a chronic borrower and who is also a lover of good coffee, and two or three times a week came over to ask the loan of enough of the grain to make coffee for breakfast, because her grocer had failed to send up in time. Unfortunately for the accommodating lady who furnished the coffee, the quantity returned was invariably short and the quality of a much inferior brand. After thinking she hit upon a scheme that proved a winner, a couple of pounds of low grade coffee was purchased, placed in a quart jar and the borrower's neighbor sent over the jar was given the required quantity of coffee and a most returned continued to shrink, and two or three weeks the two pounds of coffee were reduced to one and the can was empty. Then the borrowing lady was told of the plan adopted and right then and there was also glad to get rid of a borrowing nuisance at the cost of thirty-five cents. Winchester Democrat.

A PUNISHED SAINT.

Let Jonathan Edward had after begged his mother to take him to church. That was his heart's desire. Comforted with the privilege of going to church in his tricycle, he was a church and molasses to the folks of the neighborhood, and no good. So one fine Sunday morning recently he took little Jonathan Edward, who, all agreed, was marked for the ministry, perage for monasticism, to a neighboring sanctuary. It was a momentous and solemn occasion—the little saint's first visit to the sacred precincts. There was much in the church to arrest the lad's attention. He seemed to be deeply impressed, and then, becoming thoughtful, he turned and asked in a loud voice: "But, mother, where's the money?"

When mother recovered her presence of mind she said: "Why, dear, there's no money in the church. What made you think of such an absurd thing?"

"Why—why—what said there was an organ in the church, and I thought there would be a money tree."—Buffalo Commercial.

SHE WAS GONE.

At a recent gathering of the clergy of his diocese Bishop Lawrence, says the Boston Herald, told the following story on one of those present: "In the clergyman's house in June he was staid, he and she, hand in hand, behind the garden gate. 'It is as sweet,' he murmured, 'while a mild air, sweet with the smell of hyacinths, lifted the moon upon its broad, high forehead. 'Is hard, dearest, to say good-night.' 'You'll find it so,' barked the old lady from her bed-room window. 'Good-morning would be better any day. It's close on 2.'"

A DISTINCTION.

"Why do you insist on annoying the neighbors instead of playing in your own yard?"

"Because," answered the precocious youngster, when mother told him that father's likely to punish us, but when the neighbors tell us on he just says 'boys will be boys.'"

IGNORANT OF LEGAL TERMS.

Tarantula Tom—Why did Bill plugh th' tenderfoot?"

"Wasn't he 'fret'—I all come of Bill's distress' ignorance of legal terms."

T. How 'us that?"

L. B. P.—Well, Bill owed the shorthorn some money, an' was over a hundred dollars in debt, so the stranger went in a letter sayin' 'I will draw on you at sight.'"

Bill thought that meant he was to draw on him, and so he went to the bank, but when he drew on him he found it was a question of the shorthorn's stock against the oaks of the dining room door in his native cottage, as pretty as a picture on any farm. He understood perfectly. Folding her arms in a final way she said in a soft, but determined manner: "Nothing doing."

Commissioner's Sale.

John Donaldson, plaintiff, vs. P. H. Stephens, &c., defendants.

By virtue of a judgment rendered in the Circuit Court of the Bath County, Ky., in the above entitled case, the undersigned Master Commissioner, on MONDAY, SEPT. 10th, 1906, at about one o'clock p. m., proceed to offer for sale to the highest bidder at public auction in front of the Court-house door in Owensville, Bath county, Ky., the following described property, to-wit: a tract of land situated in Bath county, Ky., on the waters of Slate Creek and bounded on the north by the lands of Mrs. Judith Carpenter and Winfield Carpenter, on the east by Slate Creek, on the south by the lands of Phoebe Ann Johnson and Harry Bittinger, and on the west by the lands of K. H. Lane, containing about two hundred acres of land and being the same land conveyed to J. H. Stephens by deed of P. H. Stephens by deed recorded in Deed Book No. 98, page 217, in Bath County Court Clerk's Office.

Said land or so much thereof will be sold to satisfy the debt, interest and cost of John Donaldson, which amount to $1,000.00, and the costs of the Owensville Banking Company, which amount to $1,000.00, and the interest and costs aggregating $4,804.55. Terms: Sale will be made on credit of six months, and one-half of the purchase price and twelve months for the other half. The purchaser will be required to execute bonds with approved security for the purchase price payable to the plaintiff and bearing six per cent. interest from date of sale until paid and to have the same effect of a mortgage. A lien will be retained on said land to secure the payment of the purchase money.
